DASENT IS ACQUITTED.

Judge Alfred holds that he was justified in what he did.

Hardly had the last word of testimony left the mouth of Berry Dasant, in Criminal Court, yesterday, when Judge Alfred declared him not guilty. Mr. Dasant had given a clear account of an incident that occurred on the evening of Nov. 11, at the ticket office of English's Opera House, shortly before the "Parson Jim" company went to the theatre.

Mr. Dasant was manager of the company. On the evening in question he was standing in front of the ticket office talking to Ad F. Miller, when, he testified, he made the remark that the company was in a bad condition financially, and that the actors had not been paid. Inside the ticket office stood Nicholas Noyes, a sort of assistant manager. Mr. Dasant did not know him.

"You are a liar," we have receipts for your salary to date," came from Noyes. Mr. Dasant testified.

"That is none of your affair," said Mr. Dasant.

Then, Mr. Dasant says, Noyes struck through the window at him. Dasant testified that he had been able to reach him.

It was, Noyes had Dasant arrested and fined $1, with $10 costs, in Justice Clark's court. Meantime, the scenery of the "Parson Jim" company was attached by Mr. Dasant, who is now in the city awaiting the outcome of the attachment suit.

Mr. Dasant said on the witness stand that he had picked up Noyes and made him what he was, but that Noyes had worked to undermine his standing with Oliver Jones, the moneyed man of the company. He said he heard from Jones and Noyes the other day. They were then in Chicago.

THROUGH H. D. LEE

The Indiana Wholesale Grocers Will

Order Their Tobacco.

Chairman Kothe and Secretary Coffin, of the Indiana Wholesale Grocers' Association, have had their heads together for two days trying to fathom the full effect of the recent order of the Continental Tobacco Company (the trust), that does away with the old discount of 10 per cent. to jobbers that sell at list price, and fixes a schedule of discounts based on impossible sales that make it out of the question for a jobber to secure a discount unless he combines his order with a multitude of others and places it through H. D. Lee, of New York, whom the trust has designated as purchasing agent. Mr. Lee is chairman of the executive committee of the National Grocers' Association. Both Mr. Kothe and Mr. Coffin are of opinion that all Indiana jobbers will order through Mr. Lee, in which event they will get their proportionate share of the discount. The order is the subject of much comment in wholesale circles.

BUSINESS MEN PLEASED

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THE TRADE OF THE YEAR JUST CLOSING.

All Branches Benefit by the Wave of Prosperity—What Merchants Have to Say.

The wholesale men and jobbers of Indianapolis are all wearing smiles, for they have enjoyed the banner year in their business. Sales have been larger and the profits consequently more gratifying. A Journal reporter called on many of them yesterday and asked for expressions from them as to the condition of their business and the cause of the prosperity. As will be seen in the interviews given below they all say they are well satisfied with the business done this year; that they have placed more goods on the market and received better prices than ever before. All branches of business have benefited by the great wave of prosperity which has swept over the country. The wholesale men attribute their successful year to the fact that everybody has more money, and that with the confidence combined they put their money into circulation and buy more and better goods than ever before. Here is what some of the leading men in the various lines of trade have to say:

A. K. Kiser: "The drug business has been exceptionally prosperous this year. The prosperity is simply an example of history repeating itself. In 1892 we had a prosperous year, and then business fell off for a few years. In the last three years it has been gradually increasing until this year it is probably the best ever known. Our farmers have more money, which is the prime cause of the general prosperity, and then they put it into circulation, which helps every branch of business. In the drug business there have been very few failures, while the small dealers have enjoyed a very prosperous year."

George Hiltz, president Hiltz Baking Company: "First of all I will say that the cause of the general prosperity of my business as well as of the line of business country over, can be laid at the feet of President McKinley. He brought prosperity to the country, and since his election business has rapidly grown better until this year we will chalk up our banner business. If I were a Democrat I tell you that I would vote the Republican ticket hereafter as a business proposition. If for nothing else, for everybody realizes that the confidence which was restored by McKinley's election is largely responsible for the good times we are now enjoying. Before the presidential election where a business man took his money and converted it into gold coin, he buried it in a safe or deposited and stated that he would leave it there until he found out who would be elected. When the votes were counted and McKinley was the man he took the money out in a few days and loaned it. This was the cause of the general prosperity. We had confidence in the Republican administration. Business has improved, and we are getting better prices for our goods than ever before. It is the banner year, and we expect business to continue to grow."

S. C. Carey, of Layman & Carey, wholesale hardware: "This year is one of the best we ever had and the good business in our line has been general all over the country. Since 1892 the business has been increasing until now we are putting more goods on the market than ever before. There have been an exceedingly small number of failures in the hardware trade and our firm has only met with one, and that was a man who went into business with the intention of defrauding his creditors. It is an old matter to account for the general prosperity all over the country. The farmers receive good prices for their crops, and they place their money in circulation. The small dealers buy in larger quantities now than they did a few years ago. The prices have advanced but the consumers are willing to pay the price because they have the money. Very few people are idle and those who don't have money have it in the bank. The outlook for next year's business is decidedly encouraging and the fact that it will be presidential year, when business more or less falling off, will not affect us as much as heretofore."

J. N. Carey, manager Daniel Stewart, wholesale druggist: "You ask me how our business has been and I answer that it has been very prosperous. For the last three years this general prosperity you can ask McKinley. For three years the country has been prosperous and business has rapidly increased. We have done more business than ever before and I think that the same may be said about other business men. We hope to do a still larger business next year."

William M. Jilison, of Knight & Jilison, steam, water and gas supplies: "We have been a very successful year for us and the outlook is very bright. Owing to the large advance in iron and steel, which are from 50 to 100 per cent. higher in the raw than they were a year ago, our receipts are larger than ever before. The business has been very good. At first men came into our house and wanted to contract for pipe, but when given figures nearly double what they were a year ago they refused to buy. Now they pay the high price without a murmur. The reason is that they can afford to do so for there is more money in the country than ever before and the great prosperity has been furthered by the fact that in our business the immense advance in iron caused a slight falling off in the amount of business. The small dealers who are contractors and other buyers held back for awhile thinking they would be profited by the decrease in price. But they realized that they were not in sight they bought at the higher prices. We can hardly predict the future, but we believe that the business will depend largely on securing the raw material. It is hard to predict so far ahead. But we believe that the business of next year will also be a good one in a business way."

BEST THEY EVER HAD. James Broden, manager M. O'Connor & Co.: "In answer to your question as to how our business this year compared with former years, I will say that it is one of the best years we have ever had. The general prosperity has helped the groceryman as well as other branches of business. There have been but few failures this year. People have more money and are paying better prices for their goods. We expect another big year next year."

H. B. Hibben, Murphy, Hibben & Co., wholesale dry goods: "So far this year we have had a very successful business. The tendency seems to continue to be good. The prosperity is caused by the people having more money and in our business we have noted the fact that they are buying a better class of goods than ever before. The small merchants are all under this state of affairs and all are making money. If they fall in business during the next year it will be the fault of gross mismanagement and cannot be laid to hard times, for there are none. The business has not abated yet and we expect for next season are brighter than ever before."

Henry Severin, of Severin & Ostermeyer: "We have had an excellent business this year and the mere fact that fancy and high-grade goods are being sold in abundance shows that the people have money to spend and that prosperity is general. We are pleased with the outlook for next year and are anxious to get our goods out as early as possible. A young man called at my office the other day and wanted to sell a cheap contrivance for a typewriter and when I asked him why so many people were buying the machine he said that owing to the hard times they could not afford to pay more. He could not have made a statement more true than that. The hard times are all over, and for this year has been the most successful that has ever been known by the retail merchant. The retailers are probably the only ones who have not shared to a handsome extent in the general prosperity and in our business we are getting better prices than ever before and people are buying more goods than ever before. This is caused by the fact that they have more money to spend. Everybody seems satisfied
